Q60 What are the trends have you experienced this past year?

Answered: 11 Skipped: 13

#	RESPONSES	DATE
1	Decrease in both initial testing and recertification	1/16/2019 2:40 PM
2	Steady testing volumes Increase in candidates taking exams more than once, due to pricing incentive program (Take 2 Program). This program allows candidates to take the exam twice, and is priced slightly more than a single exam take. First time pass rate has declined due to this program. Increase in attendance at exam prep courses. Slightly lower recertification volume within the past year and increase in emeritus status certificants.	12/27/2018 11:55 PM
3	After several years of declining renewal rates, the percent renewing has increased in the last year.	12/14/2018 4:13 PM
4	We reached over 1000 certificants within the past year. This is the most we ever had.	12/11/2018 6:18 PM
5	declining exam applications and recertification	12/7/2018 1:11 PM
6	declining recertification rates increase in initial candidates due to FreeTake program continued requests for focused small scope subspecialty credentialing	12/4/2018 10:40 AM
7	Decrease in applications due to year-round testing.	12/4/2018 10:33 AM
8	Increased interest in both basic and advance level certification programs. More international interest.	12/4/2018 10:24 AM
9	Increasing NP certification	12/3/2018 7:45 PM
10	Still increasing in retirement; more RNs are taking the exam based upon clinical practice rather than simply based on education (So COHN types percentages have increased); the number of new candidates are not meeting the exodus of retiring; per practice analysis, our RNs are in the late 50's; seeing more nurses in late 50's to early 60's taking the exam	12/3/2018 12:38 PM
11	Continued growth in certifications, especially FNP, and preference for electronic processing of applications and documents	12/3/2018 12:22 PM

1	1. ANCC offers an interdisciplinary National Health Care Disaster certification which is open to 9 different disciplines. 2. Future reports, recommend separating APRN certification from Advanced Practice certification. APRN is used for licensing. 3. Recommend adding APRN specialty for future reports.	1/14/2019 1:40 PM
2	some of the questions are difficult to answer without explanation	12/4/2018 10:40 AM
3	I have include our AHN level certification information under Basic RN certifications as we have an Advanced level certification for graduate prepared nurses as well as an Advanced Practice level certification (which currently requires licensure prior to applying for the APHN exam). Thank you for compiling this important data.	12/4/2018 10:24 AM
4	Does any organization offer annual renewal process? We do have APRNs take our exams. The exams are written for nurses in general practice rather than in advanced practice. Does anyone have regular communication with applicants and candidates before taking the exam? Does anyone have a "value" campaign to acknowledge support of those maintain their credentials? What are good marketing campaigns to reach potential certificants? Does anyone do a reach out to closed certificants and offer reactivation discount? Have any small certification boards developed an intern position for marketing outreach?	12/3/2018 12:38 PM
5	Questions about ABNS and ABSNC websites, management, election process	12/3/2018 12:22 PM
